1.1 Moral Bias

Tabel S1 presents the top $50 \, Dos$ and the top $50 \, Don'ts$ of Verb Extraction. Verbs were generated by means of WEAT value. Tables, however, are ordered by decreasing moral biases. Both statistical magnitudes are listed. The WEAT value for each particular word representation is defined as the difference between the mean cosine distance to all elements of A and the mean cosine distance to all elements of B, as formulated in Equation 1.

Referred WEAT values are generated with Association Set A and B on the Google negative news model. The character of resulting Dos and Don'ts can be adapted arbitrarily by varying the applied association sets. Additionally, the conduction of experiments with identical word sets but on alternative models can yield completely different results. On the one hand, this is due to different implementations of feature extraction, that may result in individual numeric representations. On the other hand, the characteristics of trained models reflect the information that is carried implicitly and explicitly by the source texts. Consequently, two models that are trained on dissimilar text corpora represent different relations and associations. Factors that determine the nature of literature and thus included associations —reflected in the trained model—substantially could be for instance the time of origin, the political and confessional setting or the type of texts sources (fiction, law books, authentic letters, ...).

1.2 Diachronic Changes of Moral Bias

As described in the main manuscript, the Moral Choice Machine can be used as a tool to extract and investigate the moral bias based on different text sources. This enables one to e.g. track changes of moral along different time periods or inspect the reflected moral of specific text sources. For this purpose the moral choice machine's network(-weights) are retrained on different data sources, adapting it more and more towards the data we want to analyse.

The training setup and hyperparameters we used for retraining can be listed as follows:

- Stochastic gradient descent optimizer ADAM
- A batch size of 64
- A learning rate: 0.00005
- A loss weight $\lambda = 0.01$ to ensure the balance between supervised and unsupervised tasks. Total loss is defined as $L_t = \lambda L_1 + L_2$ where L_1 is the cross entropy loss for the unsupervised task and L_2 is the softmax cross entropy loss for the supervised task
- the supervised task is designed as two fully-connected layer with 100 and 3 nodes in the first and second layers, respectively
- A learning rate decay factor of 0.5
- Learning rate decay steps: after 400000 iterations
- Number of iterations: one million
- We did not use dropout during retraining

• As the original Universal Sentence Encoder the retrained encoder outputs a 512 dimensional sentence embedding vector

To illustrate the (diachronic-) change of moral, the Figures S1 S2, S3 and S4 show the bias of the various actions. Moreover the bias scores based on the corresponding text sources of the top 25 positive and top 25 negative —atomic and context-based— actions (out of 127 in total) are listed in Tables S2, S3, S4, S5, S6, S7, S8, S9, S10, S11, S12 and S13.
